Manchester Public Library re-opening on Monday June 22nd

Your wait is over! The Manchester Public Library will reopen to the public on Monday June 22nd, 2020 for grab and go library services. We have missed our patrons and are excited to be able to welcome you back in to the buildings. To maintain a reasonable level of safety, please read our following guidelines:

- Masks need to be worn by anyone seeking service from either building.
- All books and items returned are quarantined for 72 hours before being available for the next reader. Door knobs, desk surfaces, etc. are cleaned multiple times daily.
- If you are feeling ill with symptoms of Covid-19, please do not enter.
- No chairs will be available to sit and read or for sitting at internet computers.
- No group programs for children, teens, or adults will be held this summer and no group rentals of the Whiton auditorium.
- Staff will prevent overcrowding in any particular section.
- Plexiglass shields are in place on public service desks. Stanchions are set up to guide the flow of borrowers along the checkout desk.
- Public restrooms will be closed.
- The delivery system between libraries is not currently running, so please only return Manchester books to either building.
- We have a new self-service holds system at Mary Cheney, and will have a video on the how's in the next couple of weeks.
